COMMUNITY

The sprawling 25 acre campus in the heart of the capital, houses one of the premiere and foremost public schools of the country, Modern School Barakhamba Road.

Steeped in tradition, the school shares its history with the Nationalist Movement of the country. Therefore, as it has in the past, it continues to produce and nurture builders of a modern India. The founding fathers set up the school as an experiment in education with the belief that growth is inherent in all dynamic ideas. A product of visionary heads, the school is secular in nature and believes in imparting education free from all reservations and prejudices. It follows the close interconnection of the physical, moral and intellectual as its axiom of a sound system of education.

The student body is culturally Indian.

SCHOOL

Modern School at Barakhamba Road is a coeducational high school which opened in 1920. It enrolls 2500 students in grades 6-12. Supported by a committed and qualified teaching faculty and the teacher-student ratio is 1:40. It is part residential thus extending opportunities to outstation students as well. The hostel is only for boys. It has a junior branch at the Humayun Road called the Raghbir Junior School and a sister school at Vasant Vihar. The school academic year starts from April and closes in March. However, the class X and XII graduate in the third week of May.
